

Academic Jokes

...Lighter side of Academics

To the question, "Which noun is trousers", one boy came up with the following answer: "It is an uncommon noun. It is single at top and plural at bottom."

Many people in literature and humanities departments of Indian universities believe that copying from one source is plagiarism but copying from several sources is research.

The teacher was telling the virtue of consulting a thesaurus. After the lecture, he asked a student: "What is a synonym?" One bright scholar answered: "It is a word you use when you can't spell the other one."

From the Author's Desk.....

As we all know, making jokes is no joke, when particularly, it is on a subject like Academics. I have taken over two years to create and assemble these jokes and anecdotes.

I know we have a lot of people with a sense of humour and it would be that they would laugh when they read and re-read the jokes/anecdotes for which I had to energise my grey cells to meet the requirements of the readers.

A lot of the jokes in this book have been drawn from my personal experiences as well or have been created by me. So, keep smiling and remembering me, dear readers, as you read them, for nothing is as precious in the world as a smile on a face!
